EAST NASSAU

Honoring Our Heroes

Reprinted with permission from the Senior Advocacy Committee Newsletter

Six new military banners have arrived in East Nassau! Members of the Mullaly and Laier families are shown here with facsimiles of the banners to be placed at the southeast corner of the Village Green. Who can ever forget the hours John spent mowing the grass and Art devoted to maintaining the East Nassau Cemetery?

Ed Peplowski and Mack Croyle will be honored in front of the Post Office while father and son Bud and Robert Thompson are at the north end of the Village Green.

East Nassau Board Of Trustees “Close The Books” On 2020

by Denise Wright

The East Nassau Board of Trustees met on May 26 to review their budget and “close the books” on 2020, so they could officially start 2021’s year, which began on June 1. According to Mayor Adam Acquario, “the state of the Village is good.” While the Mayor noted that 2020 was a year where many projects were delayed, many headings in the budget, including maintenance of streets, snow removal, and public works, did not exceed their limit and had substantial savings. This year the Village hopes to utilize that money to work on some of the roads in need of repair like Webster Hill and Murdoch Road.

The Village also decided to approve some of the allocated money to assist the Village by purchasing a laptop and camera to have virtual meetings. Presently the Mayor is using his personal computer, and members of the Board believed it was more effective, security-wise, for the Village to attain the asset of a village computer that officials will be able to use for years to come.

The Board examined the Building line in the budget and realized they were in arrears on paying the rent for using the Hoags Corners Ambulance Building for 2020. The Mayor sincerely apologized to the ambulance squad and asked for approval to pay the bill and pay the rent for 2021 early in its entirety. The Board granted his request.

The meeting concluded with Mayor Acquario providing the good news from the Public Service Commission that the Spectrum Franchise Agreement was approved and is presently being put in the billing system.
