Esme's Stories: A Magical Journey

by Amy Modesti

Since 1987, Make-A-Wish Northeast New York has granted more than 2,000 wishes to children fighting illnesses throughout the local area. These wishes aim to bring hope and joy to the child, their family and those involved in its fulfillment.

Saturday, May 7, the first of its kind Make-A-Wish art exhibition was fulfilled at The Arts Center of the Capital Region for 11-year-old Troy resident Esme Savoie. Savoie, a storyteller, fights intractable epilepsy and other health challenges that inhibit her ability to speak, walk and eat. Using only an eye gaze as a means of communication, it took several years for Savoie to communicate what she wanted for her wish.

"When we started Esme's wish journey, her communication with her talker was still very limited, and it was incredibly important that Esme be given the time and opportunity to articulate her wish," said Wish Mom Hillary Savoie. She continued, "When she wished for an 'Esme Museum,' it was the first time Ez used communication to share a creative vision of how she wanted something to be, and from there, with the support of her communication team, her creativity exploded."

From May 7 through June 4, visitors stepped into the creative mind of Esme Savoie in her exhibit, "Esme's Stories: A Magical Journey." Upon entering, visitors viewed photos of Esme with

We Had a Great Time

The Town of Grafton and, in particular, their events committee, had tremendous weather and a great turnout for the second annual town wide picnic, held once again at Greywacke Meadows (the Wedding Barn). Hamburgers and hot dogs were provided and most in attendance also brought a side dish or dessert. Music was provided by the River Road band and Grafton native Christina Reger.

The committee wishes to thank volunteers Nancy La Rocque and Sharon Crandall, as well as the Grafton Town Store, Hannaford, Market 32 and The Eastwick Press for their contributions.

BRUNSWICK

More Clarity on Proposed Town Code Changes

by Doug La Rocque

It was more of what was not on the agenda that made news at the Thursday, June 2 Brunswick Planning Board meeting than what was on it. In particular, Planning Board Attorney Andy Gilchrist outlined some of the proposed changes to Town code in relation to multi-family dwellings and where they could be located.

Currently a number of locally zoned parcels have what is called an overlay attached to them. That means the restrictions or permitted uses for that zoned area can be altered if there is, say, an agricultural overlay as well. Anything allowed in the overlaid district would also be permitted. These overlays, while well intended, have on occasion created some controversy, most recently involving the Belair Lane Solar project. Under the proposed changes to the code, these overlays would be eliminated. Anything that is currently constructed would generally be "grandfathered" in, however, each use would need to be reviewed.

One of the biggest complaints that spawned the moratorium on two-family and multi-family homes and the code's review was density, particularly in areas the Town's master plan has identified as in keeping with its rural character. Many such comments were directed to the Planning Board, who in turn passed them along to the Town Board. As a result, one of the more important new clauses in the code requires a density calculation, not only for multi-family but large single family home projects as well.

The Planners received their proposed code changes at this meeting, and plan to further review them at the June 16 gathering, with a letter of recommendation due to the Town Board before a Monday, July 11 public hearing.

The general public can also view these code changes on the Town of Brunswick website.

Solar Overload

There seems to be a plethora of large scale solar projects lately, and Brunswick is not an exception to this. The Planning Board has already approved 5 such solar farms, as they are sometimes called, with one more in front of it for consideration. There are two more pending before the Zoning Board of Appeals, and three in the application stage. They would be sited on McChesney Avenue Extension, Town Office Road and Hakes Road.

That totals 11 in all, not including the proposed site at the corner of NYS Routes 7 and 278. That has been withdrawn.

One of the concerns spoken about that evening was that National Grid has indicated at the present, their transmission lines are at capacity, so even if constructed, there is no guarantee National Grid could even accept the energy generated by a new solar facility.

Speaking of withdrawn, a request by Verizon Wireless to extend the height of the cell tower under construction at Creek Road and Menemsha Lane is no longer being pursued.

No Waivers for You

Two Waivers of Subdivision were also in front of the Board that evening, one involving land on Indian Creek Road, where the Board informed the applicant they could not act on the request by law, because a stop work order is in place. Another waiver request for parcels on Tarbell Avenue and Hoosick Road was denied because of recent subdivisions. The applicant will now have to submit a Minor Subdivision application.

pull up a YouTube video to listen to Esme's biography. The three remaining QR codes for the remaining stories, "Magical Ninja Pirate Story," "Surfing Story" and "Magical Dogs Story," were found inside "Esme's Stories" itself.

"Esme's wish is wholly unique, yet representative of all Make-A-Wish wishes. We've never done a wish for a museum exhibit. It's one of a kind, yet all wishes are founded in a child's imagination, and imagination takes center stage in Esme's wish. Esme writes using an eye gaze and she writes these stories that are part autobiographical and part fantasy. They go off in these wild tangents and it took several years for Esme to be able to communicate what she wanted for a wish" said Mark McGuire, director of marketing and communications of Make-A-Wish Northeast New York, to The Eastwick Press.

Walking through "Esme's Stories," one can view a tricycle with a mustache, a magical ninja pirate sailing a pirate ship in the sea, a giant surfboard, a giant shark eating a peanut butter and jellyfish sandwich, a castle on a cliff and three sled dogs mechanically moving up and down next to a sled. Each segment one viewed told a magical tale of Esme meeting a pirate, her experience surfing on a surfboard while on vacation and being pulled on a sleigh by sled dogs while on vacation at Lake Placid. Upon exiting "Esme's Stories," one can view a beautiful array of painted butterflies and birdhouses with birds perched in high shrubbery. At the entrance, the tall ninja pirate greets visitors with a rhyme: "Knock Knock? Ketchup. Ketchup with me and I'll tell you."

"Esme's Stories: A Magical Journey" was whimsical and beautiful. Savoie has the creative vision and drive to tell a tale about her magical, beautiful life with all its unique twists and turns that have viewers and listeners captivated. And it was all done with the assistance of the contributing artists, The Arts Center of the Capital Region and the exhibit sponsors including brother and sister duo, Jocelyn and Chris Arndt, who performed for Savoie while Savoie was receiving medical treatment at Boston Children's Hospital on opening day and Make-A-Wish Northeast New York.

Letter to the Editor

Written and Submitted by David Sutton

After 18 years of service to the community, I would like to express gratitude to police chief Bob Ashe, and wish him the best future.

As a man uniquely suited to our small community, this big-hearted law officer did his best to reach out to those in need. An excellent communicator, people person and leader, Bob's dedication and compassion are and will be missed. No one I have spoken to has not had positive words to say about him. Many of us are dismayed by his dismissal from his job.

The nature of the charges against him smack of a persecution by people with either personal animus or political motivation. They have deprived the entire community of a difference-maker unlikely to be replaced.

Sometimes things need to be said.

Thank you for your service Bob Ashe.

You will always have friends in Hoosick.

Medical Matters Weekly

Submitted by SVHC

Matthew Vernon, MD, a radiation oncologist, medical director of the Southwestern Vermont Regional Cancer Center, and an avid road and adventure racer, will be the next guest on Medical Matters Weekly at noon on Wednesday, June 15.

The show is produced by Southwestern Vermont Health Care (SVHC) with cooperation from Catamount Access Television (CAT-TV). Viewers can see Medical Matters Weekly on facebook.com/svmedicalcenter and facebook.com/CATTVBennington. The show is also available to view or download as a podcast on svhealthcare.org/medicalmatters.

Dr. Vernon has been instrumental in procuring advanced technology for cancer treatment in southern Vermont, including a linear accelerator. The device delivers treatment with greater accuracy and fewer side effects. Similarly, he helped introduce hippocampal sparing radiation, which helps patients with metastatic brain tumors retain thinking and short-term memory function typically lost with full-brain radiation. A third innovation, tumor-treating fields, slows the growth of primary brain cancer in ways that can extend life and improve quality of life for patients.

Dr. Vernon received his medical degree at the Medical College of Wisconsin and completed his residency in the Department of Therapeutic Radiology at the University of Minnesota. He is certified by the American Board of Radiology.

EAST NASSAU

End of the Year Meeting Highlights

by Denise Wright

The East Nassau Board of Trustees held their annual closing of the books meeting on May 31. This meeting enables the Village to start its fiscal year on June 1 with a clean slate.

Mayor Adam Acquario commented that the Village had a budget for 2021-2022 of approximately $180,000, and the Village only spent $153,000 because of the Trustees and Village officials' financial diligence. This surplus has given the Village a revenue of $27,743.57 which is a great place to be.

Some budget lines did require a slight adjustment from the contingency budget. Areas such as records management and public information were slightly over budget because of increased digital website fees and a need for notices for special meetings and hearings.

The equipment budget line was significantly lower this year, and Mayor Acquario mentioned a goal for the upcoming year to get safety vests for Village officials and workers who help with challenging situations.

The Village spent $35,000, which, according to Acquario, is the most that they have on road maintenance and the Village's snow removal line was significantly lower this year. Still, Trustees realized the unpredictability of that line.

Mayor Acquario hopes during 2022-2023 to get Emergency Service 911 signs for residents to adhere to State codes.

Reimagine Plan Will Modernize and Improve County Government

Submitted by the Office of County Executive Steve McLaughlin

Rensselaer County will be undertaking an ambitious plan to improve County facilities, expand important County services and broaden access for the public to County government, County Executive Steve McLaughlin announced.

The Reimagine Rensselaer County project will modernize and strengthen County services at all levels. Funds for the project come from the surplus generated by the County the past four years.

“This is a major step forward for Rensselaer County, and will ensure a solid platform of facilities and services for future generations. This is an investment in our operations and the future viability of County services and government and how we serve the public,” said McLaughlin.

The resolution for the Reimagine Rensselaer County project has been introduced to the County Legislature, which may take up the resolution at the June 14 meeting. The Reimagine Rensselaer County expansion and improvement effort would utilize $26.8 million. Along with County surplus funds, some funds from the federal American Rescue Plan would be utilized, as well as some previously budgeted funds.

The components of the project include appropriations to allow for the improvement and fit-up for conversion of 99 Troy Road in East Greenbush. The County will be relocating many offices and services to the location, following a purchase approved this spring. The move would mean the majority of County facilities would be in County ownership.

Rensselaer County currently spends $1.1 million to rent Flanigan Square for DSS and Probation services, meaning $11 million has been spent for the rental.

The effort would also include $3 million to allow for maintenance and upgrades at the County Sewer District, utilizing ARA funds. The sewer district has supported major economic development and job creation projects in areas of the County. It would provide for replacement and improvement of senior centers operated by the County.

New components for the County emergency radio system would also be provided. Funding would replace emergency radios nearing the end of warranty, and help enhance coverage across the County.

Funds included in the plan would allow Rensselaer County to continue a strong paving effort in 2022, to build on the 170 miles paved over the last four years, along with making additional investments in highway equipment. Funds would also be provided the replacement of a County garage in Cropseyville and allow for full-time use of the garage. Replacement of a recently closed bridge in Berlin would also be provided.

Ban Lifted on Poultry Shows

New York State Agriculture Commissioner Richard A. Ball has announced the end of the bans on live poultry shows, exhibitions, auctions, sales, meets and swaps in New York State. The Department had previously issued the bans on March 25 and April 14 as highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) spread across the United States. The decision to lift the ban comes as cases decrease nationwide, including in New York State, which has not had a detection of HPAI in nearly two months. Additionally, as the State enters agricultural fair season, phylogenetic studies have shown that the majority of flocks affected in the current outbreak were infected by introductions from wild birds, rather than by farm-to-farm transmission, lending additional confidence in the decision.

Department officials are conducting extensive outreach to poultry and egg farms across the State to ensure best practices are being implemented.

Commercial and hobby poultry farmers should continue practicing good biosecurity measures to help prevent the spread of the disease. The Department encourages all poultry producers, from small backyard to large commercial operations, to review their biosecurity plans and take precautions to protect their birds. Poultry biosecurity materials and checklists can be found on the USDA’s “Defend the Flock” website.

Compiled by Doug La Rocque

The Empire Super Sprints highlighted the night last Friday at A-S, the first of two scheduled appearances this year. The speedy little winged warriors ran a 25-lap, $2,400 to win the feature, with defending series champion Jason Barney taking the checkers, followed by Chuck Hebing, Danny Varin, Brett Wright and Jordan Poirier.

Matt DeLorenzo became the first two time modified feature winner at the track this season. DeLorenzo was running 4th when caution flew on lap 25, but just two laps later he grabbed the lead and never looked back.

Jack Speschock held on for second, followed by Marc Johnson, Kenny Tremont Jr. and Jeremy Pitts. Joey Scarborough claimed the Sportsman race.

Fonda Speedway

One good turn (around the track) deserves another, and that is actually what Matt DeLorenzo accomplished on Saturday night at the Track of Champions. He followed Friday night's win at A-S with another in the Modified Feature at the Fonda Speedway. It was his third time in Victory Lane this year at Fonda, and his 40th feature win at the track overall. Ronnie Johnson came in second on the evening, followed by Dave Constantino, Jessica Friesen and Rocky Warner. The 25-lap Sportsman feature was claimed by Payton Talbot.

Devil's Bowl

Billy Lussier pick up his first win this year in the Sportsman Modified feature at the West Haven, VT track. He was followed under the checkers by Shawn McPhee, Adam Piper, James Hanson and Brian Whittemore. The Limited Sportsman feature went to Josh LeClaire.

The Wife of a Neighbor Dies

Sunday, June 20, 1852: I and my wife walked up to P. Hatch's to see his wife for she remains quite sick and not to live but a short time. Today John F. and his two sisters returned home from Samuel Beers on a visit.

Wednesday: This afternoon Geo P. and Sarah started for Troy and Albany. I handed Sarah ten dollars towards buying her a silk dress. They stayed tonight to Mr. Rufus Withees.

Friday: Towards night John F. rode over to my Rodgers farm with Mr. Steel to look at some sheep we have to sell but he did not buy them. This evening Geo P. and Sarah O. returned home from Albany and Troy after trading some. Sarah paid eleven dollars for a black silk dress and three dollars for to have her hat and Charlotte's altered. In Albany they called on the widow Freelove Wylie.

Sunday: Today the wife of Philander

Hatch died and tonight Geo P. and Charlotte E. watched with the corpse to P. Hatch's.

Tuesday: I and my wife and two sons and daughter Charlotte E. walked to funeral to P. Hatch's to the funeral of his wife. Elder (blank) from Lebanon preached. Today an Irishman began to work for me by the name of John, for three months at ten dollars per month. This morning Mr. Belcher from Hancock came and bought nine fowls and paid me two dollars for them.

Wednesday: I this morning drove a cow to J. B. Maxon's and this forenoon mended fence and stopped sheep holes on my Rodgers farm where my sheep got into my oats and old Mr. Aaron Merrills came and told me my sheep had been in my oats and Mr. Sparrowhawk came and helped Merrills get them out. I had a hard thunder coming home.
